Easter Seal Fund Gives Job Aid to Handicapped

Vocational training and job placement are among the many services provided the Southland's handicapped through the sale of help-giving Easter Seals.

The Crippled Children's Society of Los Angeles County, local sponsors of the Easter Seal campaign, maintains two centrally located workshops for teen-agers and adults crippled from birth or disabled through disease or injury.

Thirty percent of the handicapped persons served by these workshops have been placed in competitive employment during the past ten years, it was reported by Paul Dietrich, Easter Seal Society president.
